

DAILY ANUNNAKI TABLET REPORT

Samsu-iluna, the Anunnaku, and Babylon's Foundation

VA 2645 · CDLI P371191 · RIME 4.03.07.05Akkadian

Old Babylonian limestone tablet · selected exact-object line art

CORE PASSAGE · LINES 8–12

in d a-nun-na-ki / šumam ṣīram ibbiûšu

‘among the Anunnaku / did call him by an exalted name’

Bābili / šuḫuššu kīma [šamê] u erṣetim / [u]kinnūšum

‘They made Babylon's foundation secure for him, like heaven and earth.’

CONTROLLED RESULT

The Anunnaku phrase and naming predicate are un-restored in P371191. The following foundation clause has two small restorations. Anum and Enlil grant and name; Marduk commissions; Samsu-iluna performs the later fort rebuilding. The result is exact-copy visible and edition-guided—not photograph-decoded.

EXACT-OBJECT EVIDENCE

Selected copy, parallel control, and row map

Visual identity and image-to-text alignment remain separate gates

VA 2645 / P371191 · SAMSU-ILUNA

Selected exact-object line art, with BM 038402 / P370917 as a labeled parallel only

SELECTED EXACT VISUAL

PARALLEL WITNESS — NOT VA 2645

BM 038402 / P370917, exemplar 02 of the same inscription. Its photograph confirms the material transmission and damage profile but cannot authenticate signs or rows on selected P371191.

CORE · LINES 8–9

in d a-nun-na-ki

šumam šīram ibbiūšu

Published translation:

'among the Anunnaku / did call him by an exalted name'

Preservation: the group name and naming predicate are not bracket-restored in P371191.

FOUNDATION CLAUSE · LINES 10–12

Bābili / šuḫušša kīma [šamê] u erṣetim / [u]kinnūšum

'They made Babylon's foundation secure for him, like heaven and earth.'

Preservation: Babylon, foundation, earth, and most of the verb survive; the heaven sign and the opening vowel of the verb are restored. The clause is therefore useful but not wholly un-restored.

ACTOR + CLAIM CEILING

Anum and Enlil are the actors carried forward from lines 1–7: they favor Marduk, grant him rule, call him exalted among the Anunnaku, and secure Babylon's foundation. The Anunnaku are the ranked collective in the naming formula, not the named builders. The exact copy fixes the row bands; it does not turn the reading into a fresh sign-by-sign collation.

IDENTITY CHAIN

Current CDLI P371191 metadata identifies VA 02645 / VA 2645 as RIME 4.03.07.05Akkadian exemplar 01. The exact copy itself prints ‘Kalksteintafel Samsuiluna's (VA 2645)’ and labels columns I–IV.

EXACT-VISUAL FALLBACK

The current P371191 artifact page exposes exact line art but no photograph control; its advertised photo path returned HTTP 404. The exact line drawing therefore satisfies the hard gate. BM 038402 / P370917 is shown only as a labeled parallel.

ROW REGISTRATION

Obverse column I uses printed 5/10/15/20 controls. The core Anunnaku and naming rows are mapped only as whole-row bands between 5 and 10; the foundation clause follows around 10. No word-level sign box is claimed.

EVIDENCE CLASS

Exact selected-object line art; whole-row visible and edition-guided. The companion photograph cannot authenticate signs or rows on VA 2645.

P371191 exact copy · reverse columns IV and III

1 · GRANTING ACTORS

Anum and Enlil look favorably on Marduk and grant rule over the four quarters.

2 · RANKED COLLECTIVE

Marduk receives an exalted name 'among the Anunnaku.' The collective defines rank/context.

3 · FOUNDATION PROPOSITION

Babylon's foundation is secured for Marduk; two small elements are restored in P371191.

4 · COMMISSIONED RULER

Marduk, titled divine creator of wisdom, commissions Samsu-iluna to shepherd lands and people.

5 · HUMAN EXECUTION

Samsu-iluna says he had bricks made and rebuilt six ruined forts within two months.

Claim ceiling: organized divine authorization and Babylonian foundation ideology are supported; Anunnaku masonry, extraterrestrials, spacecraft, genetics, mining, laboratories, or advanced machinery are not.

PUBLISHED TRANSLATION

CDLI/RIME P448499 publishes the composite transliteration and English translation. This report quotes that translation for the selected lines and labels its compressed English restatements as cautious working translation.

GRANTING ACTORS

Anum and Enlil look favorably on Marduk, grant him rule over the four quarters, call him by an exalted name among the Anunnaku, and secure Babylon's foundation for him.

RANKED COLLECTIVE

The Anunnaku phrase defines the rank field within which Marduk is exalted. It does not make the collective the subject of Samsu-iluna's later first-person building verbs.

HUMAN EXECUTION

Samsu-iluna claims the brickmaking and fort rebuilding. Even within royal ideology, divine authorization and human execution remain grammatically distinct.

TECHNOLOGY FIREWALL

No spacecraft, laboratory, genetic procedure, mining process, autonomous machine, electrical mechanism, or recoverable advanced-technology apparatus appears in the selected lines.

CORPUS RESULT

Anunnaku rank inside Babylonian foundation ideology

Useful support—with a strict historical ceiling

MAIN TAKEAWAY

VA 2645 preserves an un-restored Anunnaku phrase and naming predicate in a chain where Anum and Enlil exalt Marduk, the following clause secures Babylon's foundation, and Marduk commissions Samsu-iluna.

CORPUS VALUE

The source adds a direct bridge between organized divine rank, Babylon's cosmic foundation language, royal commission, and a concrete six-fort rebuilding dossier on one inscription.

STRONGEST SUPPORT

It supports an organized, differentiated divine authority structure connected to kingship and city foundations. It also demonstrates how an exalted divine title legitimates human political and building action.

LIMIT

The Anunnaku are not the grammatical builders. The foundation clause is partly restored in P371191, and the surviving exact visual is a scholarly copy rather than a photograph.

SITCHIN TEST

The inscription is consistent with a remembered non-human/divine hierarchy shaping civilization ideology. It does not identify extraterrestrials, Nibiru, spacecraft, genetics, mining, laboratories, or advanced machinery.

DAILY CAPABILITY IMPROVEMENT

Adds an Authorization–Execution Predicate Ledger. The workflow now stores the granting actor, ranked collective, naming or decree predicate, foundation proposition, commissioned ruler, human building predicate, and restoration state by clause. A divine rank phrase near construction can no longer become false Anunnaku masonry or technology agency.
